

Good Reads by CTL...

"I now consider this book as essential reading - Anishnaabe writer Krawec guides the reader through a journey on how to be in better relationship with the land, each other, and in solidarity with Indigenous people."

This book is recommended by:
Emma Greenfield

"Provides real world accounts of how to improve our teaching practices throughout a course."

This book is recommended by:
Iain Robertson

"Overthrow mimicry and get students truly thinking in this step-by-step process of redesigning the classroom and the teaching and learning experiences all with in-the-field evidence."

This book is recommended by:
Samantha Sullivan Sauer

"This is a great book with helpful strategies for building better habits and being better versions of ourselves."

This book is recommended by:
Liam Squires

"The words 'rethink and unlearn' caught my attention; Grant argues that our choice to stay comfortable in our convictions rather than uncomfortable in our growth is a problem for growth and he suggests we need to embrace failure and let go of ideas that aren't working."

This book is recommended by:
Tracy Mitchell-Ashley

"An excellent book to help you better understand how trauma reshapes our brain and body and ways we can begin to heal."

...And More Reads.

